Nexeo Plastics Names Collier Chief Commercial Officer for North America

THE WOODLANDS, Texas, February 11, 2021 – Nexeo Plastics, a leading global thermoplastics resin distributor, recently promoted Jeff Collier to chief commercial officer (CCO) of North America. He has now assumed responsibility for the growth and performance within the region.

“Jeff has shown exceptional leadership in driving team building and performance since joining us last year,” said Paul Taylor, president and chief executive officer of Nexeo Plastics. “We are elated to promote him to this new position, which covers the North American region.”

Collier most recently served as vice president of sales for North America for Nexeo Plastics. Prior to that, Collier spent more than 25 years in various sales and leadership roles with multinational companies, driving sales performance, market growth and team development.

With the creation of the CCO role for North America, Nexeo Plastics has established executive leadership positions for each major operating region, including North America, EMEA and Asia. These executive leaders are focused on growing share, improving performance and developing personnel within their respective regions.

Nexeo Plastics also promoted Arturo Hoyo to vice president of sales for North America, replacing Collier in this role. He will be responsible for the continued development and expansion of the company’s footprint throughout the region across all existing and prospective vertical markets. Hoyo has served as managing director of Nexeo Plastics’ Mexico operations for nine years, playing a pivotal role in growing market share in the country.
